Higher Tech Minded Ladies (HTML): Higher Tech Minded Ladies is a project that has as its mission to create opportunity for young girls to enter the STEAM fields through education, mentorship, and empowerment. The project aims to reduce women's under-representation by showing middle-school-aged girls that a career in the STEAM fields is an option for them by grabbing their interest while they are young. In addition, these girls should be shown how to apply these skills in real life by using their skills in service to others. This semester HTML is holding its meetings online and is offering the program for free. Following is the link to where the students can apply to be part of this program.
